A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on August 27, 2009 has been entered.

Claims 25-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 25-27 are directed to a method of inhibiting the formation of advanced glycation end products and aldose reductase activity which comprises administering to a human a composition comprising anthcyanin. However, it is not clear from said claims if a human to whom said composition is administered is in need of said administration.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by the European Patent No. 1 318 201 A1.

The European Patent discloses the claimed anthocyanin composition (paragraph [0029] - [0030]).

Applicant's arguments filed August 27, 2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant contends that the European Patent does not disclose the activities or uses of anthocyanin required in the present claim. This argument has not been found persuasive since claim 1 is directed to nothing more than an old compound disclosed by the European Patent. The activities of the compound are inherent properties of said compound. The preamble of claim 1 i.e. "An inhibitor of the formation of advanced glycation" does not change the inherent properties of the claimed compound.

Claims 25-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the European Patent No. 1 318 201 A1 in combination with of Bailey et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,780,442) and Rahbar et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,605,642).

The European Patent discloses the claimed anthocyanin but does not disclose a method of inhibiting the formation of advanced glycation end products and aldose reductase activity in a human by administration of anthocyanin.

Bailey et al disclose that orally administered anthocyanins are beneficial for treating diabetes (column 1, lines 36-40).

Rahbar et al disclose in diabetic patients increased glycation takes place (column 1, lines 33-37).

Therefore, a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the claimed invention was made would have been motivated to administer anthocyanins to a diabetic patient. The inhibition of advanced glycation end products and aldose reductase inhibiting activity would have inherently taken place in diabetic patients with the administration of anthocyanins.

Applicant's arguments filed August 27, 2009 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
